

CLINICAL "SNIPPETS"

Induction of therapeutic hypothermia during prehospital CPR using ice-cold intravenous fluid.

Kamarainen A, Virkkunen I, Tenhunen J, Yli-Hankala A, Silvast T.

Resuscitation. 2008 Sep 20;

Overview: Investigation of the induction of therapeutic hypothermia during prehospital cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) using ice-cold intravenous fluids.

Conclusion: Induction of therapeutic hypothermia during prehospital CPR and after ROSC using ice-cold Ringer's solution effectively decreased nasopharyngeal temperature. The treatment was easily carried out and well tolerated.